Arsenic & Old Lace

By Joseph Kesselring

Aug 7, 8, 9, 14, 15, 16

One of the best madcap, screwball comedies ever, this classic Broadway hit re-introduces the sweet, elderly Brewster sisters, their nephew Teddy, who believes himself to be Teddy Roosevelt—and their drama critic nephew Mortimer (played by Cary Grant in the famous movie version), who is as surprised as anyone to learn that his maiden aunts' well-known proclivity for charity now extends to the compassionate poisoning of sad, lonely old boarders with glasses of arsenic-spiked elderberry wine.

Moon Over Buffalo

By Ken Ludwig

Nov 13, 14, 15, 20, 21, 22

In the madcap comedy tradition of Lend me a Tenor, the hilarious Moon Over Buffalo centers on George and Charlotte Hay, fading stars of the 1950's. At the moment, they're playing Private Lives and Cyrano De Bergerac in rep in Buffalo, New York with 5 actors. On the brink of a disastrous split-up caused by George's dalliance with a young ingénue, they receive word that they might just have one last shot at stardom: Frank Capra is coming to town to see their matinee, and if he likes what he sees, he might cast them in his movie remake of The Scarlet Pimpernel. Unfortunately for George and Charlotte, everything that could go wrong does go wrong, abetted by a visit from their daughter's clueless fiancé and hilarious uncertainty about which play they're actually performing, caused by Charlotte's deaf old stage-manager mother who hates every bone in George's body.

First performed in 1997, I Love You, You're Perfect, Now Change is one of off-Broadway's longest running shows. And there's good reason for that. The musical deals with the universal theme of love and pokes fun at the life experiences we've either gone through or will go through. The show, which is actually about 20 different sketches filled with music, singing and dancing, chronicles a lifetime of relationships, from first date to an older couple hooking up at a funeral home.
